AN EPITAPH—HE DIED A CONVICT

Cardenio F. King was the original of Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford, immortalized in story by an American novelist and dramatized into fame by George M. Cohan.

He was a country boy, born on a stony North Carolina farm. He became a printer—a newspaper correspondent.

He drifted out in the big world and saw big men and big things.
He became a promoter and a floater of bubbles.

He launched great enterprises, and all his enterprises were bubbles.
Gold poured into his coffers. He spent it like a lord.

Men believed in him.
Believing in him, they gave him their money for investment.

He floated newspaper and oil propositions in Texas; all bubbles.

His head was high in the heavens.
His feet never touched the earth.

He was a Napoleon of finance in New York and a Monte Cristo capitalist in Boston. This was after he launched a newspaper at Fort Worth and became an oil king in Texas in a field where there was no oil.

He amazed men with his daring and dazzled men with his promises.

He was a Colonel Mulberry Sellers one day and a Monte Cristo the next.
His audacity won the plaudits of the mob. His winning personality, the smiles of money nabobs.

He played every game of chance that was worth the while, and floated bubbles on sea and on land.

There came a panic one day and his dupes lost millions.

He was caught in the meshes of the law and the jury found him guilty and sentenced him to a term of servitude in a penal cell.

HE DIED A CONVICT.

What an epitaph for one of the most daring floaters of bubbles and financial butterflies of his time.

It isn't safe to play with other men's money.

It isn't safe to cross the danger-line of the law.

It isn't safe to lure into a net the querdons of society.

It is better to play the game according to the rules.

It is better to be poor and honest than to be rich and dishonest.

It is better to keep one's feet on the ground.

It is only a short journey from the cradle to the grave.

Ill-gotten gains fly away like the bubbles that Cardenio F. King floated from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico.

A poor man may have his load to carry, but he never wears stripes.

There may be rocks in the road to bruise his feet, but he will not die a convict.

There may be thorns everywhere for him, but there are roses as well.
HE DIED A CONVICT carries with it its own moral as well as its own warning.

The boy starting in life should take it home to himself. He should realize that it is best to play fair, for the fair player never wears stripes and his end will not come in a cell for an outlaw of society.—Fort Worth Record.

Mrs. Bryan, wife of Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, has gone to their home at Lincoln Nebraska to put up the preserves and sweet pickles for the use of the family next winter.
Lord if we could just be delivered from the daily rehash of the troubles of the Bryans to make both ends meet.
We honestly believe the government should provide Mr. Bryan with a home in the outskirts of Washington with room for a garden, poultry lot, cow lot, and a patch or two, and furnish them with a home canning outfit.

Those farmers near Buffalo who have already salted down a little tomato money, a little pepper money, a little potato money, a little peach money and a little money from other like sources are not, it is reasonable to presume, worrying half so much over the cotton crop outlook as are those other Leon county farmers who are still wedded to the old one-crop idea.—Centerville Record.

Secretary McAdoo of the United States treasury, has checkmated Wall Street in its efforts to bring about a money stringency for the handling of the cotton crop. He will deposit from twenty-five to fifty million dollars in the banks of the cotton states in order that there may be no money stringency in moving the crops.

From the best information obtainable as to President Wilson's attitude on the Mexican situation, it seems to be about as follows: President Wilson is friendly to Mexico, but Huerta is persona non grata. He may not recommend intervention, but he will never recognize Huerta.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good. State warrant shavers who were expecting to have to carry their claims against the State many moons, aye even a year, have already cashed in and realized their profits out of the Standard Oil penalty.

Enough trees were uprooted on the White House grounds in Washington in a recent storm to make a thousand cords of wood. It will be given to the poor. This was nothing like the Democratic storm last November that uprooted the whole Republican forest, both giant oaks and underbrush.

England is said to be peeved to such an extent over the matter of Panama canal tolls that she will not participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held at San Francisco in 1915. That's too bloomin' bad doncher know.

We suspect that many of the big jewelry thefts reported lately, are nothing more nor less than a pawn shop proposition. The high rollers call it theft to explain the absence of their flashers.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has gone into the bankruptcy courts. She perhaps wishes to kick off her debts before she starts on her high kicking tour at a high salary.

Corn has advanced seven cents per bushel during the past week. That is tough on the all-cotton farmer, and especially those who are up against a cotton failure.

If you have not done anything for Bryan's schools this vacation, do it now. If all will help we can fill them to overflowing next session.

The outside estimates for this season's cotton receipts in Bryan, are 18,000 bales. Last season we received over 30,000.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Men like to talk as well as women do, but they want pay for it.

You may expect cold treatment from others if you make it hot for them.

Why is a baby nearly always good-natured in the morning when others are ill-natured.

Many a man's cordial handshake is due to the fact that he needs that dollar in your pocket.

If an old soldier's story doesn't line up with history he blames it on the historian, who probably wasn't there.

In case you fail to put your best foot forward when you have a chance you may feel like using it to kick yourself later.

Any girl will cheerfully give up a dollar to a fortune teller in exchange for the information that she is going to be married within a year.

After a man reads a newspaper joke that appeals to his sense of humor he is anxious to make an after-dinner speech for the purpose of ringing it in.

FROM THE EAGLE FIFTEEN YEARS AGO.

Hardy Newton has returned from Waco, and accepted a position as bookkeeper with J. Allen Meyers.

The firemen, practicing with their new steamer fire engine succeed in throwing a stream of water on top of the court house tower. Drawing two streams from one fire plug they threw them high above the Koppe three story building.

James Cooper of Wellborn sold a herd of 1600 cattle to Mr. Reeves, of Caldwell at $15.00 a head, the total being $24,000.

A box car loaded with bagging in a Central train a few miles north of the city took fire. The car was uncoupled and rushed to Bryan, where a fire alarm was turned in and the blaze extinguished in short order.

Boll worms were damaging the cotton terribly in all parts of the country, and the supply of poison to fight them was completely exhausted.

The Colored Normal closes after a successful session. Sixty-seven negro teachers attended.

W. A. Harrison of the Experiment Station Department at the College, left for his home in Greenville, Texas, on a short visit to old friends and relatives.

WILL DELAY APPOINT- ING A SECRETARY.

The Council is not planning to appoint a successor to Mr. John A.
Moore, who has resigned the office of City Secretary, in the next few days, but pending the appointment of a successor they are rearranging and systematizing the office.

Mr. C. H. Lewis, who has served as deputy secretary for a number of months and has been very satisfactory to the councilmen, is most prominently spoken of as Mr. Moore's successor. Several young men have applied for the position of assistant but the council will give the matter careful consideration before making the appointments.

The Weather

John Daly, Jr., Forecaster.

August 2, 1913.

FORECAST.

Unsettled, showers tonight or Sunday.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The barometer is highest over the Plains and generally fair weather prevails over the west and northwest with cool temperatures. Pressure is low over the southwest and throughout the eastern section causing scattered showers over the Gulf region and throughout the east. Local thunder-showers occurred at a small percent of stations in all cotton states.
Ballinger, Texas, reports a temperature of 107 degrees. Eight well defined low are storms will cross the U. S. during month of August.

WISHED SHE COULD DIE

And Be Free From Her Troubles, but Finds Better Way.

Columbia, Tenn.—"Many a time," says Mrs. Jessie Sharp, of this place, "I wished I would die and be relieved of my suffering, from womanly troubles.
I could not get up, without pulling at something to help me, and stayed in bed most of the time. I could not do my housework."

The least amount of work tired me out. My head would swim, and I would tremble for an hour or more. Finally, I took Cardui, the woman's tonic, and am not bothered with pains any more, and I don't have to go to bed. In fact, I am sound and well of all my troubles."

Cardui goes to all the weak spots and helps to make them strong. It acts with nature—not against her. It is for the tired, nervous, irritable women, who feel as if everything were wrong, and need something to quiet their nerves and strengthen the worn-out system.

If you are a woman, suffering from any of the numerous symptoms of womanly trouble, take Cardui. It will help you.
At all druggists.

MRS. EDMONDS DIED IN HOUSTON

News has been received by friends and relatives in this city of the death of Mrs. J. R. Edmonds, which occured on Thursday at the family home in Houston. The remains were shipped to Lola yesterday for burial, that place being the former home of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Edmonds and children were residents of this city for a number of years and only moved to Houston a few months ago. She is survived by her husband and several children who have the profound sympathy of all.
